

Brandon Smith is passionately in love with Jesus. He loves preaching the gospel and taking every opportunity to tell people about the love of Jesus. He has been involved in ministry all of his life as his father is a full time evangelist. While attending "The Call" in Las Vegas on October of 2007, God gave Brandon a vision of preaching in stadiums and arenas filled with people, which both confirmed his desire and launched him into ministry. Since that encounter, Brandon has traveled across the country speaking and seeing signs, wonders and souls being saved. His desire is to see a generation set themselves apart for the purposes of God in their lives, and to have lives marked by purity and holiness. He preaches a message that challenges the listener to embrace a lifestyle that will transform the world, and to know God intimately. Brandon attended UC Berkeley on a full ride basketball scholarship and graduated with a degree in Mass Communications. During his years in college, he led a campus ministry named "Campus Awakening," which saw transformation take place on the campus as hundreds were impacted by the ministry. Brandon went on to play professional basketball overseas and is currently on the staff as Director of Interns at New Life Church in the East Bay area.
